GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears. Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Winter

These days the face and hands need special care and attention. Strong winds, quick changes of temperature from indoors to outdoors, are saviors of the skin. Their despoiling effects are best overcome by the application of pure emollient cream. This keeps the skin and pores in a clean condition, the complexion beautifully white and smooth, "chapped," redness, blotchy and roughened cuticle are actually absorbed by it. One ounce of Musterole will be obtained at any drug store, is sufficient to completely renovate a weather-beaten complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Mr. Dodson Warns Against Use of Treacherous, Dangerous Calomel.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it causes it to curdle, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headache, constipated and all broken out, just go to your drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. ## RELEASING POINTS OUT POSSIBILITIES DEALS MISSISSIPPI

Retiring Governor Says That It Will Require Millions for Public Needs—Parts With Vardaman's Crowd.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 7. (Sp.)—Gov. Bilbo's last message to the legislature, although a dissent, was not without length, containing nearly 2,000 words. It contained many important recommendations that will no doubt receive the favorable consideration of the lawmakers.

If the governor's political enemies expected that his swan song to the senate would contain an outburst of partisan spirit or personal venom, they will be sadly mistaken. It is unquestionably an able document, couched in admirable English, and will not suffer by comparison with the final messages of the outgoing governors of former administrations.

Perhaps the most significant feature of the document is the fact that Gov. Bilbo is not at all optimistic regarding the state's financial problem. He calls attention to the small bonded indebtedness of the commonwealth, amounting to a little more than $2,000,000, most of which is in serial form, and while not attempting to minimize the magnitude of the problem, he does not believe that the demands being made on the lawmaking body for increased appropriations, he unhesitatingly urges that a spirit of liberality be shown, and that provisions be made at once for the building of such new institutions as the state may need and the making of necessary repairs and improvements at institutions already established.

New Buildings.

The governor estimates that it will take not less than $5,000,000 to erect new buildings needed by the colleges and eleemosynary institutions and urges the lawmakers to make the money available without restriction. He estimates that the cost of building a new college building, for example, would not come for many years. In this connection he suggests that the state establish a large brick manufacturing plant at the Farmington farm, to be operated with convict labor at $3 or $4 per thousand, and at the same time interfere with agricultural operations at the prison camp.

Gov. Bilbo opens his message with a 3,000-word tribute to America's part in the war, discusses the reconstruction problems that must be dealt with as a result of that conflict, warmly praises the 70,000 young Mississippians who offered to make the supreme sacrifice, and takes a vigorous whack at both the profiteers and the office seekers. Here is a sample phrase:

"Partisanism, jealousies and envy are spreading their deadly poison, rending both their destructive and their self-serving office seekers. They are casting the blood of our slain brothers upon the battlefields into political advantage, and the money lords would coil the tears and heartaches of those who gave their loved ones in the supreme sacrifice into fifty dollars to fill their swarming coffers that they might continue to live in luxurious ease."

Parts With Friends.

The governor violently parts company with his erstwhile political friend, Ex-Senator Vardaman, whom he is expected to oppose for the senate in 1922, by vigorously defending President Wilson's policy, which Vardaman is bitterly assailing in his weekly newspaper. In fact, some of the governor's language might be construed as quite personal. Discussing the critics of the peace treaty and opponents of the league of nations, he says:

"Like vultures of the air, they are gnawing at the heartstrings of our civilization, undermining the hope of the world, plucking the tears and blood of the torch of terrorism and anarchy, but before it is too late in this hour of the world's opportunity for a brighter and better day, the dawning of the millennium, let us fervently pray that the God of righteousness will enlighten the hearts and minds of our representatives in the American senate to promptly and properly ratify the league of nations, and adopt, with or without amendment and reservations, whichever seems best in their judgment, the league of nations, which is built upon the tears and blood of the teeming millions who died for the sake of humanity, and let us dedicate and consecrate to the peace of the world, the brotherhood of mankind, and the freedom of all the people of the earth."

Abnormal conditions now existing in Mississippi and elsewhere in the world, says the governor, cannot be brought about by legislative acts, but the lawmakers should in every way possible seek to encourage the processes of readjustment now under way.

The governor next takes up a review of the accomplishments of his administration during the past four years. Among the statutes enacted and institutions created he mentions the following:

Abolish Fee System.

Abolition of the fee system in county offices; creation of state board of legal examiners; creation of state board of pardons that has reduced number of pardons from 2,500 to 500 in four years; creation of state highway commission that is saving the taxpayers millions of dollars; passage of uniform probate instruments act; enactment of blue sky law; establishment of two lunatic asylums; creation of state highway commission; creation of state highway commission; creation of state highway commission; creation of state highway commission.

At some length the governor discusses the plan of the state highway commission and the Mississippi Highway Improvement association for a $2,000,000 bond issue to be used in building a system of modern highways touching every county in the state and gives it his unqualified endorsement. He suggests that the bulk of this bond issue be borne through a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline.

The governor also refers to war measures in the concluding portion of his message, expressing profound satisfaction that war was permitted to be the war governor of the commonwealth, and in a burst of eloquence he paints a glowing picture of the future of the nation.

CENSUS MAN WANTS TO LIST ROOMERS

The cooperation of persons living in hotels and boarding houses is sought in an appeal which Charles G. Dean, census taker for the state, is making. He has issued a circular letter to all hotel and boarding house proprietors, asking them to list all persons living in their establishments.

The census taker says that the purpose of the census is to get a correct picture of the population of the state, and that the cooperation of all persons living in hotels and boarding houses is essential to the success of the census.

A Grand failed to convince the court of appeals at Cincinnati that he had a right to have his possession of goods which were stolen from an N. C. & St. L. box car. The court today affirmed the sentence which W. D. Kiser secured in the federal court here. Railroad men consider this a great victory and hope for less thefts of goods in transit.

WOMAN FRACTURES SKULL

JACKSON, Tenn., Jan. 7. (Sp.)—Mrs. Ora Kashi sustained a fractured skull and is believed to be in a serious condition. She was taken to the hospital here after a fall from a street car.

NEW PEACE OFFER MADE.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Nikolai Lenine, Russian Bolshevik premier, has made a new peace offer to the allies, which is being taken to London by Col. Talbot, British representative in the Baltic states. Among other conditions included in the offer is a promise to stop the persecution of Jews.

HUNS TO ASK DAMAGES.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 7.—German peace delegation has been instructed to ask the foreign office to claim full damages from the French government for the loss of the French ship, the Leviathan, which was sunk by a German submarine.

dicta worth at least $200 per annum on the ground that the state of Mississippi has adopted a plan for the preservation of shade trees at state institutions and for the preservation of the state of Mississippi.

Enactment of laws for conservation of timber resources and the reforestation of the state of Mississippi.

More liberal appropriation for the state of Mississippi, which is a very meager allowance.

Enlargement of all state charity hospitals, more liberal support funds, complete control by the legislature of all hospitals supported in part by the state and the erection of the state of Mississippi the delta section and a large hospital for East Mississippi at Meridian.

Liberal appropriation for State Tuberculosis sanitarium at Meridian, which has turned out a very small amount because of lack of room. The governor points out that there are at least 20,000 cases of tuberculosis in Mississippi and the death rate is about 5,000 per year.

More money for Confederate pensions and for the state of Mississippi, which is a very meager allowance.

Enlargement of all state charity hospitals, more liberal support funds, complete control by the legislature of all hospitals supported in part by the state and the erection of the state of Mississippi the delta section and a large hospital for East Mississippi at Meridian.

Enactment of a law requiring candidates for state office and for congress to file sworn statements of their campaign expenses two weeks before date of election.

Enactment of uniform warehouse receipt act, similar to statute now in effect in 40 states of the union.

Establishment of electric lighting plant to supply capital buildings and all public institutions in Jackson.

Appropriation for the common schools large enough to insure better pay for teachers and improvement of the public school system, as urged by Prof. W. N. Bond, state superintendent of education.

Appropriation sufficient to offer educational opportunity to nearly 500,000 adult illiterates in Mississippi, of whom 285,157 are over the age of 14.

To List All Property.

Enactment of laws that will enable the state tax commission to put all property on the books at its full value.

The governor says that the work of the commission, while it has wrought wonders in a short time, has just commenced. He is especially vigorous in defending the work of this body, against which a strenuous fight is to be made during the session, bills having already been framed seeking to have it abolished.

Creation of sinking and insurance funds to replace state property destroyed by fire and storms. The state has suffered several heavy losses from these causes during the past four years, the losses being total because no insurance is carried on state property.

Sale of the governor's mansion, and provision made for a more simple home for the governor, one that the incumbent of the office would be able to maintain on the salary paid. In concluding this subject the governor suggests that, inasmuch as both capital buildings are now crowded, it would be an excellent idea to move the state library and the supreme court to the executive mansion.

Touching on the financial problem, the governor states that, under authority granted by the legislature, a referendum last autumn, he has borrowed for the use of various state institutions the sum of $205,640. All of these institutions are now heavily indebted, due to increased living costs, and, but for these loans, would have been without funds during the closing months of the year. The largest sums borrowed were $75,000 of the insane hospital in Meridian, and $50,000 for the state of Mississippi.

Mississippi has an assessed valuation, says the governor, of $100,000,000, and is the only state in the union with less than $1 per capita. It isn't worth anything about it. He then follows with a list of the state's financial needs at the various colleges and eleemosynary institutions, and suggests that the legislature ought to spend not less than $2,000,000 for work of this character.

Statute to encourage the reorganization of the Mississippi national guard and the building of a state armory on the old capital grounds are urged by the governor.

At some length the governor discusses the plan of the state highway commission and the Mississippi Highway Improvement association for a $2,000,000 bond issue to be used in building a system of modern highways touching every county in the state and gives it his unqualified endorsement. He suggests that the bulk of this bond issue be borne through a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline.
